

Next steps after diagnosis

Congratulations on your new baby! We are prepared to answer questions as you care for your growing baby. There is so much to think about after your baby is diagnosed with a health condition. The Children and Youth with Special Health Needs program at the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) can help your family in a lot of ways.

Baby was born!

Your baby received Newborn Screening shortly after birth. The results showed a possible health condition, and we at MDH are here to support you through this journey.

Follow up after diagnosis

After your baby's health care provider diagnoses the condition, we can partner with you to offer follow-up to your family.

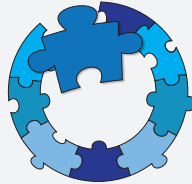

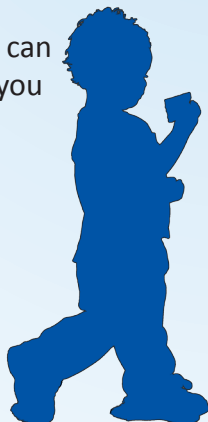

Phone Call

We will call you soon. The call only takes about 15 minutes. We do this to get to know you and your family better! That way we know which resources you might find helpful.

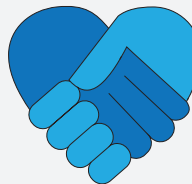

Ongoing Support

As your needs change over time, we can keep in touch and share things that you may find useful as your child grows.

We can help link you to resources that may be helpful, such as financial, educational, and support services.

We offer families information about opportunities to connect, share experiences, and ask questions.

We can connect you to up-to-date information on your baby's condition and research opportunities, if you are interested.

Talking with and listening to you improves programs and resources that also help other families. Thank you!
